

AREX develops, manufactures, procures and supplies high-quality tactical equipment.

This includes, in addition to bags and modular backpacks, ammunition pouches, textile equipment, ballistic plate carriers and ballistic protective vests, as well as soft ballistic and hard ballistic protective plates. In our textile production, we offer the entire portfolio from development to series production. We also offer integrated solutions combining injection molding and textiles. For example, case pouches for special weapon systems.

An important point is the sustainability and value retention of the textile products. Keeping them operational and also being able to offer post-certification and retrofitting. For this reason, we offer comprehensive maintenance and service programs for professional customers.
